The Institute for the History of Religions of the Romanian Academy

announces

the launch of the competition for the “Mircea Eliade” post-doctoral fellowships on the topic

Religions, History and Society in Europe and Asia

for the academic years 2010-2012

Conditions for the applicants:

1. The research project, drafted in the Romanian language and in a foreign language of international circulation, must be 10 000 to 15 000 characters long (with spaces), dated and bearing the candidate's holograph signature.
2. A European-format electronic Curriculum Vitae (Europass format), including the candidate's photograph, and signed on each page.
3. A detailed list of publications and activities (lectures, conferences, research trips, etc.). The list must be dated and signed.
4. The list of specialized languages (depending on the chosen topic) mastered by the candidate, including a self-assessment of the corresponding language skills. The list must be dated and signed.
5. An affidavit certifying that the research project did not already receive financing from other sources, nor is it simultaneously the beneficiary of a supplementary grant. Any double financing will lead to an automatic exclusion from the competition. If, nevertheless, the project submitted already was the beneficiary of prior financing, whether partial or total, the candidate must submit a justification (maximum 2 000 characters in length, with spaces) defending the need to pursue further research on the topic.
6. Certified copies of the BA, MA and PhD diplomas.
7. Copies of the candidate's prizes, distinctions, certificates and other materials, which the candidate deems relevant.
8. A document to certify the completion of a research trip abroad of minimum 1 month in length (if applicable).
9. Two letters of recommendation by recognized researchers in the field. The letters of recommendation must be sent by the referents by e-mail (scanned) or by fast mail to the Institute for the History of Religions.
10. Four scientific papers: an electronic copy of the PhD thesis and three other works deemed representative by the candidate, either in the original or copies.

* The documents requested at points 1 though 5 must be submitted both in Romanian and in a foreign language of international circulation.
